- Games and books for small children
- Leash for pets
- Food and water for pets
- Sturdy shoes (no tennis shoes, sandals, flip flops, etc)
- Gloves
- Chainsaw or handsaw

If you decide not to evacuate, the following should also be included in your kit.

- Fill bathtub(s) with water for sanitation use or additional water containers
- Fire extinguisher(s)
- Fuel for generator (should be stored in a safe container and place)
- Be prepared to handle wild animals seeking shelter

Any other items that you feel may be needed should be included.

During a mandatory evacuation thousands of residents and visitors will be attempting to leave the area at the same time. All hotels, motels and restaurants will suffer the same rush of people at the same time. If you find a hotel access to meals may be difficult or result in a long wait for service. Remember that the food in your disaster supply kit can be consumed if other sources are limited or difficult to access. If supplies from your disaster kit are used remember to replace the items as soon as possible.
